Given what you've learned today, what would your take away be for moving the sector forward?